Boutwell plan will need more funding

by Jeff Nazzaro
Alternate funding plans for the Wilmington School Committee voted reopening of the Boutwell School to meet space needs have still not been fleshed out. It now seems certain that the project will come down to a battle for an override of Proposition 2 and 1/2 to pay for the approximately $400,000 Boutwell plan.

Following a suggestion from Town Manager Michael Cairra, the board of selectmen Monday night agreed to invite members of the school committee to the selectmen's next regularly scheduled meeting, January 10, to discuss the possibility of such an override.

The board of selectmen must vote to have an override placed on a town wide ballot.

In a memorandum dated December 16, Superintendent of Schools Geraldine O'Donnell informed Cairra of the school committee's vote "to accept the recommendation of [the school committee's] Space Needs Subcommittee to reopen the Boutwell School as a Kindergarten to Grade 5 school for the 1994-95 school year."

In what could be viewed as a primer for asking the selectmen to put a Prop. 2 1/2 override to a ballot, O'Donnell "respectfully requests that [Cairra] notify the Town of Wilmington Selectmen of this vote."

No meeting was requested by the school committee with the selectmen, however.

"We can only assume [a meeting] is what [the school committee] want[s]," Cairra said in suggesting the meeting himself.

A separate letter addressed directly to the board of selectmen from the "Town Wide PAC" and dated December 9, or six days before the school committee vote, openly lobbies the board to "support...an override of Proposition two and one half to re-open the Boutwell School."

At Monday's meeting Selectmen Chairman Chester Bruce and Selectmen Michael McCoy both expressed reservations about a two and a half override.

Still, an override appears to be the only chance a reopening of the Boutwell stands, something Cairra said at the December 13 selectmen's meeting.

Following the vote to reopen the Boutwell, School Committee Chairman Bob Peterson stated that a Prop. 2 1/2 override is "the only way it can get done."

Small Cities program dealt tough blow

by Jeff Nazzaro
The Wilmington Small Cities Program received what could amount to a fatal blow when the Executive Office of Communities and Development last week rejected its application for a $787,000 grant from the state agency.

The grant would have continued the work done by the small cities program, enabled by a $797,000 grant in 1992 which expires on June 30 of 1994; but town officials are not giving up yet.

Town Manager Michael Cairra presented the news of the rejected grant bid with regret to the board of selectmen at Monday night's meeting via a letter from the EOCD which concludes with "Please do not hesitate to call our staff..."

"We did not hesitate to call their staff," said Cairra, who will meet with EOCD officials next week to "see if there is a basis for an appeal."

Cairra, who explained that Wilmington scored very low (25 out of 40 on a 100 point scale) in terms of community need, said he intends to review all applications processed by the EOCD. Cairra last week, upon hearing of the grant rejection, reviewed the entire application process with the EOCD.

Cairra offered high praise for the small cities program, particularly its director, Gene Garber. The application prepared and presented by Garber garnered 53 out of a possible 60 points (which comprises the balance of the 100 point determining scale) for the handling of the 1992 grant and the application for a new grant.

Selectman Diane Allan concurred. "I think Gene Garber did an excellent job" with the small cities program and its grant application, she stated. "I'm extremely disappointed we didn't get this grant."

But Cairra still harbors hope for reversing the EOCD's decision. The current grant initial application was submitted in 1991, at which time it was rejected. However, upon a review by the EOCD's federal overseer, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that agency determined that "Wilmington should have been funded and [subsequently] was," according to Cairra.

The Wilmington Small Cities Program will continue to offer its full host of services, including job search assistance under coordinator Cathy Beyer, until the June 30 grant expiration date, pending any appeals.

Added voter registration

The Wilmington Board of Registrars will be holding extra voter registration Saturday, January 8 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in room 12 of the Town Hall for the special primary election.

The last day for Wilmington residents to register to vote to be eligible for the primary election is Wednesday, January 12. The board of registrars will be in room 12 from 8:30 in the morning until 10 o'clock that night for the purpose of registering prospective voters.

Possible Swain project

by Jeff Nazzaro
Town Manager Michael Cairra added renovation and use of Swain School to the list of possibilities for the long talked about expansion and combination of fire and police department facilities when he informed the Wilmington Board of Selectmen Monday night that he had suggested the permanent building committee "look into it."

The suggestion of using the Swain School, originally the town's high school, and more recently the police department's detective bureau and local access cable station WCTV studio, is just that at this stage - a suggestion, according to Cairra.

The permanent building committee may now ask for funds to conduct a feasibility study, similar to the one done on the current police station for $17,000 in 1990.

Selectman Diane Allan, a member of the permanent building committee during that time, gave a favorable review of the committee's processes.

Fourth graders at Woburn Street School presented Dicken's A Christmas Carol for the seniors at Wilmington Woods Friday morning. Here Scrooge, played by Charles DiDomenico listens as Marley, played by Jason Carlson, delivers his warning.

Sewer assessment bill

House Bill 5125, which would change the methods of sewer assessments in the Town of Wilmington, is currently on the Governor's desk awaiting his signature.
 Representative Jim Miceli (D-Tewksbury/Wilmington), who filed the legislation, has been actively pushing the bill through the legislature.
 After being engrossed in the House in June, the bill finally returned from the Senate on December 23. Miceli immediately got the legislation enacted in the House, it was enacted in the Senate and sent to the Governor's desk all in the course of one day.
 The bill was a result of a Wilmington Town Meeting asking the State Legislature to make the assessments for sewer charges in the town more equitable. It was filed by Representatives Miceli, Krekorian, and Brenton and Senator Buell on behalf of the citizens of Wilmington.

It's YOUR Money

TRUSTS HIT HARD UNDER NEW TAX LAWS

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS
 Certified Public Accountant

Time was, people with money put in trust for their children. There were important tax benefits: funds could grow at low tax rates, lower than if the money were passed directly to the beneficiary.
 The tax law of 1986 wiped out most of the advantage, and the new law goes much further. Indeed, trusts will now be taxed at a higher rate than the grantor or the beneficiary. The tax rate has nearly doubled for some trust income.
 Up to now, the first $3,750 of trust income was taxed at 15 percent, and the maximum rate was 31 percent on income over $11,250. The new law, retroactive to January, raises taxes to 28 percent on income over $1,500 and the new top rate is 39.6 percent on income over $7,500.
 Trustees now tread a difficult path to combine safety and as much tax avoidance as they can. One option is to increase risk by shifting to investments that will grow in value; capital gains are taxed at 28 percent. Another is to distribute income to beneficiaries.
 Here's wishing you a happy, healthy prosperous 1994!

Building a financial legacy

by Donald E. Sommese
Many people today are working hard to accumulate assets with an eye toward leaving their heirs a solid financial legacy, but building your estate is just one part of the equation. Planning its distribution, even if your estate is of moderate size, is just as important.

A carefully crafted estate plan ensures that your wealth reaches the people you choose, in the manner you choose. Although state inheritance laws try to be fair, they may not necessarily distribute your property to your spouse and relatives as you would want. Equally important, a well prepared estate plan can reduce, or even eliminate, estate taxes.

Three Steps for Developing an Estate Plan

Begin the estate planning process by assessing the value of your estate. Current federal law allows you to leave an unlimited amount to your spouse free of federal estate tax. By means of a unified credit of $192,000, you can also leave as much as $600,000 to beneficiaries (other than your spouse) tax free.

However, any amount over this $600,000 is subject to a federal estate tax starting at 37 percent and rising as high as 55 percent. You would be surprised to discover how easily the value of your estate can reach the $600,000 threshold when you add together the current market value of your home, investments, personal property, any business you own, your retirement benefits and the face value of any life insurance policies you own.

As a second step, review your family situation and objectives.

*Is your spouse a capable money manager, or should funds be left in a trust? And who should be the trustee?

*Where should the property go after your spouse's death?

*Should all children be treated equally, or do any have special medical or educational needs?

*Should there be other beneficiaries, e.g., a university or charity?

*If you own a business, do you have a buy-sell agreement to ease transfer of the company stock? Do you have sufficient cash to fund the agreement?

If you have a family, your primary concern is probably to ensure that your estate is passed on to your spouse and children in the amounts you intend. If you are not married, you may want to designate your beneficiaries and provide for the management of your financial affairs in the event you become disabled.

The next step is to consult with your financial adviser or tax professional, as well as an attorney who can draft the appropriate will and trust agreements.

Wills and Trusts can reduce your tax burden

Depending on the value of your estate, an appropriately drafted will can help reduce, defer, or even eliminate estate tax on your property. For example, if you write a "sweetheart" will that leaves all your assets to your spouse, your spouse will not have to pay any estate taxes because of the "unlimited marital deduction." However, if your spouse does not remarry and he or she dies with a combined estate of more than $600,000, your heirs may face stiff estate taxes.

One way to lower your heirs' future tax bite is to set up a "bypass" trust. Trusts are legal devices that hold property for the benefit of named beneficiaries. Via a trust agreement (established either outside or within your will), you name someone to manage assets placed in the trust and give instructions on how distributions are to be made. Trust funds can be placed in a variety of investments, including stocks, bonds, government securities, mutual funds, and certificates of deposit.

Money in a bypass trust does not go directly to your spouse and is not considered part of his or her estate, but he or she can benefit from having the income and a limited amount of principal from the trust. Your heirs then receive the balance of the principal upon your spouse's death.

Here's how the marital deduction and a bypass trust would eliminate the federal estate tax on $1.3 million of assets.

*At your death, the first $600,000 of assets in your estate would go into the bypass trust. It would generate a tentative tax of $192,800, but your unified credit would wipe this out.

Dr. Kenneth M. Leavitt • 11 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington • 658-9774

Intervention is the cure. Dr. Leavitt examines a patient's foot to determine what is the cause of the pain and then eliminates the pain.

Wilmington native Ken Leavitt has been practicing medicine for 10 years in his home town. When many others who become doctors rush off to the big cities to seek the big bucks, Dr. Leavitt has established himself here, at home.

His specialty is podiatry, problems of the foot. Ingrown toenails and heel pain are common problems he treats but his real area of interest is in surgery. Dr. Leavitt has operating privileges at Winchester Hospital and New England Memorial Hospital.

He prides himself on being the only podiatrist with an independent office in Wilmington or Tewksbury. He is also proud of being Board Certified. Not every doctor is. It's his work in quality assurance that is passion. Providing relief from pain, correcting problems and doing it right the first time. He isn't happy with telling a patient "Sorry, that's all we can do." High quality is achieved by continuing education, attending conferences and reading all the publications available on podiatry. Dr. Leavitt does just that.

A benefit of the quality assurance is cost effectiveness. Having a problem fixed right the first time is also cheaper than going back over and over again. Not that every problem can be done that way but when it can, the doctor should know how to do it.

Should you feel the need to see a doctor about a foot problem, call Dr. Leavitt for a convenient appointment right here in town at (508) 658-9774

New England Ventilation is a fabrication house. They do ductwork, and they've made stainless steel sinks for Friendly's Ice Cream, and they do in-house work for Raytheon, and they fabricate stainless steel, aluminum and exotic products for M.I.T.... and they also work directly with homeowners and small businesses!

Why in the world would a homeowner need a fabrication house? How about a copper hood for over a stove or kitchen island? Maybe a stainless steel backsplash for the kitchen? A fireplace enclosure... decorated louvers... window sills... specially fabricated gutters... auto floorboards... a brass door kickplate... copper window tops? Just use your imagination!

New England Ventilation works with copper, brass, stainless steel, aluminum, angle iron, I-beams, stainless steel

Wilmington senior topics

Hope for better days
In a few more days we will be saying goodbye to 1993 and welcoming 1994. For many, 1993 was not a happy or healthy year. The status of the economy had not changed to any extent. Many more of our residents lost their weekly paychecks. This put a tremendous amount of stress on their entire families including their parents. I am sure all of our wishes and prayers for 1994 as we look ahead are that the economy will improve, the unemployed will return to work and happiness will return to those who have suffered so much from this economic slow down.

Thanks, everyone
Wilmington Senior Citizens through the generosity of many, were able to push their troubles aside and enjoy some good times throughout the year. Some of those who made that possible include: The Wilmington taxpayers who approved the Elder Services budget to cover all the services seniors receive during the year; Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks for the annual dinner dance; the donation toward the use of their hall and for helping so many low income seniors; the Rotary Club for its $50 monthly food gift certificate for low income senior; Kiwanis Club for the shutin dinners and their $30 monthly donation of money for a senior unable to pay a bill or buy food; the Lions Club for its donation of a dinner dance and other donations to help with those needing fuel or food; Analog Devices for its donation of a catered holiday dinner, delivery to 100 shutin seniors; H.B. Fuller Co. for painting the house of a low income senior living alone and disabled; to all the seniors are grateful.

Let's not forget all the seniors who donated their time helping seniors with failing health, those who were lonely and depressed on the loss of a loved one or the will to live with terminal illness, the many who visited seniors confined to nursing homes with no family living or too far away to visit them; the volunteer seniors who delivered the 300 catered holiday dinners to shutin seniors in 1993. Finally the large number of seniors who worked very hard making and selling articles for the Senior Fair, earning enough to replace some of the articles needed to continue all the activity and other programs. Again, thanks for all your help.

Report changes
We should be reminded as the year ends of a few changes in our lives that may have to be reported to the Social Security office.

If you change your name this year, through marriage or divorce, make sure your new name is listed on your Social Security record and your card. If you don't do this and are still working, there may be a problem posting your earnings to the Social Security files. This could effect your earnings benefits later. The IRS may have a problem processing your tax return.

If you are already getting Social Security benefits and you moved this year, make sure the Social Security office gets your correct address and if your check is sent directly to the bank, don't forget to notify them as to the name of your new bank. This is important so that you will receive the Social Security form that shows the total benefits you received in 1993.

If you are presently working the amount you can earn in 1994 before your benefits are reduced is as follows: under 65, you may earn up to $8,040; 65-69, you can earn $11,160; 70 or older there is no limit on your earnings.

Another reminder, if you received benefits and worked in 1993, you will need to report your earnings to the Social Security office by April 15, 1994. The limits you could earn in 1993 were under 65, $7,680; those 65-69 the limit was $10,560.

A very happy and healthy 1994 to all.

WHS' defense bumps Redmen

by James Pote

In the 54-49 back and forth contest between the Wilmington Wildcats and the Tewksbury Redmen girls varsity basketball in the annual Coca-Cola Classic Christmas Tournament, the Wildcats' defense was able to come through in the final minutes to secure the win and advance Wilmington to the final round against Lynnfield.

Senior tri-captain Elyce Botto led the Redmen way with 21 points, but unfortunately for her and her teammates, that was not enough.

"I think we were too comfortable going into the second half, we were causing too many turnovers, but if we limit our mistakes we should improve and, hopefully compete for the rest of the season," said the energetic Botto.

At the end of the first half, the Wildcats had a one point lead with the 25-24 score that was led by sophomore Leanne Harris' seven points and junior guard Nancy Pote's six.

"It was a total team effort, everyone played and everyone played well. Once again their hustle was fantastic, but we have to improve on our shot selections," said WHS' head coach Jim Tildsley.

The second half was also a back and forth battle, with the Wildcats lead diminishing to two points half way through, but the Wildcats got much needed help from seniors Lynette Sbrano, Stacey Gillis, junior center Jacqui Holloway and freshmen Lisa Southmayd, who combined for 18 of the 29 Wildcat points.

However, junior center Erin Falzone led Wilmington's scoring attack with her nine points overall. But, the Redmen did not quit. Trailing at one time by nine points, they were able to cut the deficit to five with less than a minute left to play. Even with Botto's five point attack in a span of two minutes, they were unable to overcome the WHS' attack.

Tri-captain Tina Rideout and sophomore Kristin Bedard also played well for the Redmen, combining for 15 points.

On Tuesday afternoon, the Redmen took on the North Reading High School Hornets in the consolation game and the Hornets took the Redmen by a score of 46-40.

It was not easy for the Hornets, as the quick Redmen turned a 10 point lead down to a four point lead with less than three minutes remaining. Mandy Derouche led the way with 11 points and senior tri-captain Elyce Botto walked away as one of the tourney All Stars with another excellent performance.

Wildcats clobber Redmen, 68-54

By James Pote

After clobbering North Reading on Monday night, the Wilmington High School boys' varsity basketball team brought their explosive offensive attack back with them when they beat their archrivals Tewksbury in the championship game of the Knights of Columbus Christmas tournament Tuesday night by a score of 68-54.

The Wildcats had numerous stars that included senior center Brent Carbone who received the MVP of the tournament award after a rugged 14 point night in the title contest.

"He (Carbone) played superb. The senior leadership was tremendous, I couldn't ask for anything better. Right now we are playing rock solid basketball and hopefully we can keep that up", offered WHS' head coach Jim McCune.

Also contributing were junior Eric Froton, who came up with some big baskets, who ended up with 14 of his own points, while teammate Rich Barden nailed down some impressive baskets, and a team high 18 points of his own which earned him a spot on the All-Star team over the tournament.

"Wilmington played great. (Froton, Carbone and Barden) all played exceptionally well, they outplayed us, outworked us and outrebounded us, give them all the credit, because they deserve it", explained second year TMHS' head coach Jeff Nelson.

However, of the Redmen's 54 points, junior Brian Morris led their way with 35 points of his own, which included four three pointers, with 19 of his points coming in the second half.

"He's (Morris) a tough little player who we will have to watch out for in the future. But anytime you beat a tough, good Tewksbury team, it feels great", continued McCune.

Also, playing a key roles in the game for the champions were seniors John MacKinnon, Joe Langone and Brian Gargan who not only combined for 22 points, but also combined in great hustle.

Squirt C's edge Wakefield

by James Pote

After winning their first game of the season against North Andover, the Squirt C team of Wilmington Youth Hockey beat Wakefield, 2-1 to capture their second straight victory last week.

Both goals were scored by Ryan Layton, but it was a total team effort for the win. Colin Sheehan played a tremendous game, as did defenseman Brian Aldrich.

Sunday morning, the Wildcats suffered a tough loss, 2-1 to Tewksbury, with Ryan Thibideau scoring their only goal. Goalie John Dell'Anno played well, as did forwards Joe O'Connell and Bobby McIVER.

New players are welcome in January and those needing more information can contact Tony Romano at 640-9658.

Wilmington Youth Hockey

Mite A's top Tewksbury

Wilmington 5 Tewksbury 1
The Wilmington Mite A Youth Hockey team increased its winning streak to four in the Dual State League with a solid effort against Tewksbury last week.

The first period was back and forth action, as both teams had scoring chances. Paul Sferazza had a number of good saves for Wilmington. Anthony Tomasi scored for the Wildcats on a nice, unassisted goal with 2:40 left in the first period.

Joseph Luciano scored two quick goals before the end of the period to increase the lead to 3-0. Andy Berian made a good pass to set up one of the goals.

The second period again was back and forth until James O'Neil scored for the Wildcats on a good passing play from David Valardo and Matt Trimarchi. The Redmen spoiled Paul Sferazza's bid for a shutout late in the second period. The Wildcats closed out the scoring when Joseph Luciano scored on a breakaway.

The Wilmington defense, led by Andy Berian, Matt Porter, Danny Zuccaro and Stephen O'Dean, played extremely well.

Mite A's over Danvers

The Wildcats extended their winning streak to five in the Dual State League with a victory over Danvers.

The game was a total offensive effort, as Anthony Tomasi had five goals and one assist. Matt Porter, three goals and three assists, Joseph Luciano also had three goals, Thomas Irwin, one goal and two assists, and Danny Liberty, one goal and two assists.

David Valardo, Danny Zuccaro, Greg Buck and Mike Rideout played well and each earned two assists. Matt Trimarchi chipped in with one assist. Paul Sferazza had another steady game in goal. Stephen O'Dea also had another good game on defense, and James O'Neil made many plays that do not show up on the score sheet.

Morris powers Redmen to first round victory

After watching from the bench for the past few seasons with many injuries, junior guard Brian Morris was able to do more than play in the first round of the K of C Tournament against Lynnfield. He led the Redmen attack with 17 points in the 59-49 triumph to put them in the championship game against Wilmington Tuesday night.

"Brian played a great game. I'm very pleased with the kids' efforts today. This was our first game of the season, and it was a big and great win for us," said head coach Jeff Nelson.

Morris led with 11 of his 21 points in the 27-25 lead for the Redmen in the first half with senior co-captain Chris King and another senior, Matt Kenny contributing their six points apiece.

However, it was not particularly the Redmen's offense that won the game for them. It was their defense as well, able to shut down Lynnfield's senior guard James Samuels, who was able to get his team back into the game with 20 overall points that included the last 10 scored by his team and 15 in the second half.

"We knew he (Samuels) was a good player and we knew they have a solid team, but our defense was spectacular, mostly in the second half when it was crucial and that's the reason we won," continued Nelson, who was hoping that Tewksbury would be able to capture its second straight championship win in this annual K of C Tournament.

Not only was the second half exciting to watch Morris and Samuels, but senior guard Brian Murray also grabbed some highlights of his own with nine points, all coming in the second half which also helped Tewksbury over the top.

Nice looking ice, but can you trust it?

by Bill Conlon

Pop Quiz: You're standing on the shore of your favorite pond on this coming Saturday morning, and you just heard that somebody on the far shore is giving away $100 bills. An old man dozing in a lawnchair said there are three inches of ice on the lake. Do you risk crossing the ice?

Answer -- Yes!

Two inches of ice is considered by the U.S. Army to be safe for one individual, and three inches is safe for a group in single file. As long as you're moving, three inches of ice is enough for an individual.

Question: The ice is crystal clear and you can see fish swimming by. The old man insists it's three inches thick. Do you risk walking across the pond?

Answer -- Yes! Early ice (which is what's forming now) is the safest ice of all. It may be clear, but it's more flexible, ergo safer, than the cloudy "gray" ice that will be the norm later this winter. Maybe I'm a chicken, but walking on glass-clear ice scares the bejeesus out of me. I know it's safe, but it looks wet!

Question: You're parked on the shore in your pickup, and somebody on the far side is giving away free snowplows. The ice is five inches thick. Do you risk the crossing?

Answer -- Better not!

The Army states that eight inches of ice is the minimum for a light truck, and 12 inches for a vehicle up to eight tons. Five inches would be awfully risky, and going for a swim in your pickup is considered very tacky. Poor form indeed.

Question: You come upon a large swamp, frozen solid, and you'd like to go skating with your date. How do you know the ice is safe?

Answer -- Assume it isn't. Check the ice by boring a hole through it, but if you don't have an auger with you it can be tough to poke a hole.

When in doubt, always assume the ice is unsafe. That goes for everybody. Once upon a time, you could call the fire department and they'd tell you if the ice was safe, but those days are gone, due to lawyers. No Fire Chief in his right mind today would say the ice is safe, even in the deepest part of the coldest winter in history. If you ask, they'll always say the ice is not safe, so stay off it. Your best bet for telling if the ice is safe is to look for some fool out on the pond ice fishing, and ask him.

Lake ice always has weak spots, in part due to submerged springs that pump warmer water up onto the bottom of the ice pack. Weak spots are everywhere, and you can't tell where they are unless the ice is so weak that it's wet on top. Ask the locals around the pond, and maybe they can tell you where the pond is weak, based on past history.

Swamps, however, are shallower than most lakes, so a swamp would freeze earlier and thicker than the pond. Most likely, your date will have a wonderful time skating.

Question: The ice is six inches in thickness, but around 10 a.m. there are terrible cracking noises coming from the ice. Should you worry?

Answer -- Not at all. When the sun warms the area the ice expands, so those "sounding" noises you hear are harmless. The ice groans and pops and forms big cracks, but the ice remains perfectly safe. But the noises terrify me, so go ahead and be petrified. Never in my 38 years have I been able to sit quietly while the ice is cracking. YIKES!

Question: Can a river freeze up enough to make for safe passage?

Answer -- Yes, but be cautious. Moving water freezes differently than still water, and it takes 15 percent more "black" ice to create the same safety margin. Also, cloudy "gray" ice is only half the strength, so six inches of gray ice equals the strength of three inches of black ice. However, there are more soft spots on moving-water ice, and that is bad news. Worse news is if you fall through moving water ice, and the current drags you away from the ice hole. Take it from an old SCUBA diver -- you can't see the hole if you're even three feet away! In other words, you're a goner!

So remember, kiddies, the ice is just forming now. Early ice is the safest of all, but the ice on a pond is NEVER completely safe. There are soft spots on even the thickest ice, and the fire department really hates to have to fish people out of the lake on a cold winter's day.

Wait a week. If the temperatures stay this cold for very long, we'll be all set for a long, fun winter.

Saltwater fishing will be the topic January 8, when Saltwater Sportsman magazine holds the first of its National Seminars in Wilmington, at the Shriner's Auditorium. There are seven other such seminars set for other spots around the U.S., but Wilmington gets first crack.

The show will feature a long list of top-notch charter captains and other fishing experts (nice job if you can get it!) speaking on saltwater fishing for bluefin, bluefish, striped bass, bottom fishing, make shark fishing in New England, and other topics. Also, there will be a number of booths from boat and equipment makers, to round out the day. Hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Shriner's Auditorium. Tickets are $35 each. Call 1-800-448-7360 for tickets or more information.

Miller gymnasts proven stars

Five gymnasts from Miller's Gymnastics Training Center of Tewksbury competed recently in the USA Gymnastics Level 6 State Championships in Northboro.

Kerri Krivelow, 12 of Andover was awarded the gold medal on floor exercise in the junior age group with a score of 9.1. She was also the silver medalist in the All Around with a 34.2.

Other medals were won by Brianne Camilleri of Boxford and Kristin Kearins of Andover.

Miller's Gymnastics, which has only been in business since September, took the third place trophy in the team competition. The team will travel to Arizona in February to compete in the Fiesta Bowl Invitational.

Miller's Gymnastics is located inside the North Meadow Club and offers classes from toddlers through adults as well as a competitive team program.

Don't forget to skate safely

1. Skate only at supervised areas where the ice is at least six inches thick.
2. Keep skates sharpened and avoid "fancy" tricks until you become a skillful skater.
3. Never skate alone...skate with a companion and stay close to shore.
4. For your safety, don't skate over water that is more than waist deep.
5. Remember: prolonged freezing temperatures are necessary for solid ice.
6. Never congregate in large groups on the ice.
7. Warn other skaters if you discover a dangerous ice condition.
8. Unless skating in an area that is well lit, do not skate at night.
9. Never build fires on ice.
10. If you should fall or break through the ice, do not panic. Keep calm. Do not try to climb out. Extend both arms along the ice surface and then kick vigorously. This will help life your body forward on to solid ice. Then roll to safety.

11. When helping someone who has fallen through the ice, lie flat and push out or extend a plank, ladder, or throw a rope to the victim. Do not stand up near the ice break. Never attempt a swimming rescue.

12. Keep emergency equipment available: rope, planks, ladder, pole, rescue buoy, toboggan, or sled. Call or 658-3200 or the local emergency number as soon as possible.

Outdoor skating safety tips were provided by the Wilmington Fire Department.

APPORTIONMENT CLAUSE

QUESTION: If I take out two insurance policies on my property would it make sense to have one with basic coverage and one with extended coverage?

ANSWER: You could LOSE money if both policies do not have similar coverage. If you have extended coverage on only one policy, it could mean that you would collect only a proportion of the total claim.

If there was a $400 loss from a violent hail storm, you could collect only $200. This is due to the apportionment clause. It states that the insurance pays on a pro-rata basis, and this payment is based on the face amount of the policy.

IF YOU HAVE MORE THAN one policy on your property, all policies should have similar coverages.

Citizen's Advisory Committee to meet Jan 3

The Citizen's Advisory Committee will meet Thursday, Jan. 3 in room 9 in the town hall, 121 Glen Road, Wilmington, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The agenda will include:

Housing Rehabilitation now has 23 units in the pipeline, 11 under construction and five completed; these numbers will be higher by the meeting date on January 10. Program goals will almost certainly be exceeded. A full report will be given on this highly successful program.

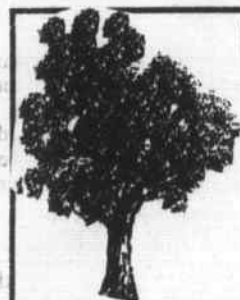

The first time homebuyers and accessory rental apartment programs are underway. As discussed at past meetings, it is a long and complicated road to qualify FTH applicants and take them to closing, but there is one case as of this writing that looks as though it will be completed. There has been a surprising amount of interest in accessory rentals but the activity is too new to have specific cases moving forward; there should be some by the time of this CAC meeting. There will be discussion in regard to the constraints on these programs and how they might be overcome.

The employment assistance program is burgeoning on all fronts. There are nine persons who have received training grants with more pending. Another support group will be starting at Wilmington Family Counseling Services. The business outreach effort to nearly 700 local employers has resulted in job opportunities being supplied regularly to the program. An update will be given.

The Committee expects to hear at any moment about the funding status of the new small cities grant application and a report will be given on that.

Santa missed a Rotary meeting

Santa Claus was among the missing last week at Wilmington Rotary. It is possible the reindeer were out in the fields munching grass, because there was no snow to be seen.

Donna Wayman took over with more than just a dash of aplomb. In Wilmington Rotary she is the Sergeant at Arms, charged with the duty of making certain that the Rotarians dutifully toe the line, when they should.

All the presents were distributed by Donna. She had some very fine remarks to make. The members enjoyed it with laughter, even if the recipient did not always seem to be gleeful.

Donna is a person who can command attention. She is the president of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, and in a couple of years she will have ascended the Rotary chain of command, and will probably be the president of the Wilmington Rotary Club.

If Santa ever does show up at Wilmington Rotary he is going to be sorry. Rotarians are never supposed to miss a meeting, and that is something that Santa did.

'Tis the time of the year to remember.

So, I direct your attention to a crew of remarkable people who do not receive bylines or a place in the masthead.

They are a group who always show up to work.

Some have been with the department for a few years, others have recently joined the staff, but all of them deserve recognition.

They are the Town Crier Circulation Department including: Erik Neilson, Mike Frisch, Cliff Buckley and Dan O'Brien who perform the tedious task of preparing the newspapers for distribution to the stores, carriers and for mail delivery.

Delivery drivers include: Don Ahern, Don Rich, Paul Catania and Francis Downs.

LEGAL NOTICE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION

Pursuant to M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 14 (a) and the Massachusetts Contingency Plan (310 CMR 40.00), the Department of Environmental Protection announces that Preliminary Assessments and/or Limited Site Investigations have been performed at the following locations:

Tewksbury - Texaco Service Station, 1 Main St., 3-0002516 N - W; Wilmington - Thermo Electron/Tecomet, 115 Eames St., 3-0004066 N - W; Wilmington - Wilmington Ford, 275 Main St., 3-0003958 N - W.

These investigations have confirmed that a release of oil and/or hazardous materials has occurred at these locations. Therefore, the Department has identified them as confirmed disposal sites. The Department has also determined that these sites are non-priority disposal sites (as defined by M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 2). M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 3A (f) (3) requires that, if feasible, permanent solutions be implemented at these disposal sites. If a permanent solution is not feasible, then a temporary solution must be implemented, and a plan for achieving a permanent solution must be developed. Waiver sites are non-priority disposal sites which have been granted a waiver of approvals by the Department, pursuant to 310 CMR 40.537. This waiver allows the person granted it to conduct remedial response actions at the disposal site without prior Department approval of these actions.

M.G.L. c. 21E and the Massachusetts Contingency Plan provide several opportunities for public notice of and involvement in decisions regarding response actions at disposal sites, including:

* The Chief Municipal Official and Board of Health of the community in which the site is located will be provided with notices of the results of investigations, plans for remedial responses, and field work involving the use of heavy construction equipment and/or protective clothing (310 CMR 40.202).

* Upon receipt of a petition from ten or more residents of the municipality in which the disposal site is located, or of a municipality potentially affected by a disposal site, a plan for involving the public in decisions regarding response actions at the site will be prepared and presented at a public meeting. This plan will be revised based on comments received, and will be implemented over the course of the response action (310 CMR 40.203).

For information on how to review the files and obtain more information on the confirmed disposal sites referenced above, and the opportunities for public involvement during their remediation, please contact Karen Stromberg, DEP Northeast Regional Office, Site Assessment and Cleanup Section, 10 Commerce Way, Woburn, MA 01801 (Telephone: 617/935-2160).

851-0515Considering the link to LRTA

by Capt. Larz Neilson

A decision on the part of Wilmington's residents seems to be called for concerning linking the town with the Lowell Regional Transit Authority. That decision could best be made in a town meeting, considering the probable cost.

Essentially, the service being offered is about the same as that of the old Eastern Mass street cars, back about 1910. That was a self supporting business, from Everett to Lowell, including many other Massachusetts communities.

From Wilmington to Lowell, in street cars that ran once an hour, the fare was 15 cents. The street cars were operated until some time after 1930.

There were other streetcar companies in those days, all self supporting. An electric streetcar from Woburn, the first electrical service in Massachusetts, started about 1903, ran through Wilmington and to Billerica, where it connected to a Lowell streetcar.

The early automobiles almost put the streetcars out of business. People who lived on Main Street found things to be handy, but persons who lived a couple of miles away had to make arrangements, definite arrangements. The early Model T Fords, and such cars as the Chevy provided other transportation to families who could afford them.

Wilmington's selectmen have been told that the LRTA bus service can be extended, probably to other parts of the town. That might be worth discussing.

At this time Wilmington does have a municipal mini-van service. It is for the elderly and seats about nine persons. It operates from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at a cost to the town of about $15,000 a year.

Priority is given to persons about to visit a physician, or make a trip to a hospital. Other services can be provided if requested, and if convenient. This service might possibly be, for instance, to the railroad station, for a trip to Boston or to Lowell.

Tewksbury has a somewhat similar service, called Community Action. The annual cost is said to be $27,737. Primarily, it is for elderly persons who wish to visit a physician or hospital.

Open Air
Street Car

A summer time street car which ran from Woburn to Wilmington Square, then north on Church Street to Wildwood, where it turned to run to what was then Perry's Corner, at Lowell Street. The motor man is William Parker of Woburn, a man with a high pitched voice, and a nickname of 'Steamboat.' Through the windows of the street car can be seen a part of the Swain House, dating back to the days after the Revolution, and in which the Swain sisters (teachers) were born. The girls are, from left, Rose and Alice McMahon, Katy Murray, home for a visit from the midwest, where she was living, and Bessie McMahon.

Miceli pushes for Wilmington LRTA

Representative James Miceli (D-Tewksbury/Wilmington) continues to work aggressively to bring Regional Transportation services to the Town of Wilmington.

Miceli has followed up on a recent meeting with the Board of Selectmen, where he urged them to forward a request to the Executive Director of the Lowell Regional Transit Authority (LRTA) in order to commence discussion with Wilmington officials. The Chairman of the Board agreed to forward that request and to set up a meeting between the LRTA and the town.

Representative Miceli started discussion with the LRTA over a month and a half ago to implement bus service for Wilmington residents to local malls, train stations and other areas in town.

Miceli feels current sections of the supplemental budget, which is now in conference committee and should be on the Governor's desk before the end of the legislative year, would be most helpful in moving the Wilmington project along. He also feels there may be help available through Transportation Bond Issue Legislation.

Rep. Miceli told the Board of Selectmen that there are no guarantees this endeavor will be successful. However, Miceli adds, "This project is worth pursuing because it would make life easier for people in the community who areas important to every day lack adequate transportation to living."

TRY A SIP OF DOWN UNDER

Australia is the land of the koala bear, the Great Barrier Reef, shrimp on the barbie, and some of the best Chardonnay in the world. If wine making isn't Australia's most well known attraction, it soon may be. Australian wines have beaten out some of the most famous French vintages in recent international competitions. The reason is the lush Hunter Valley, which gives visitors a glimpse of what California's famed Napa Valley must have been like before it became a major tourist attraction. In Hunter Valley, family vineyards stretch for miles around, often dotted with picturesque inns and restaurants to welcome visitors who might like to sample the wares or simply soak up some of the intoxicating atmosphere.

A trip to Australia is a once-in-a-lifetime vacation. Make the most of it by careful planning and attention to detail. That's what we do best at ALL AROUND TRAVEL. We'll take care of all the arrangements, including visits to vineyards and other sites to see, help with necessary documents, even help you decide what clothes will be best. We do it all here at 203 Jefferson Rd., N. Wilmington (Rt. 62). Still searching for that perfect Christmas gift? Give a little piece of the world - a travel gift certificate! Call us about it at 658-2313. Hrs: Mon-Fri., 9-5 and after hours by appt.

HINT: Head toward Sidney if Hunter Valley vineyards are your destination. You'll probably want to rent a car for touring.

Reading Municipal Light Dept. sets the pace Electric car in your future?

READING - The Reading Municipal Light Department is acting like a proud parent these days - and it certainly has a right to do so.

The department is now in possession of an all-electric car which it has converted as part of a grant from the American Public Power Association (APPA).

This car, a GEO Tracker, was purchased new by the RMLD late last year. During the past year, the car has undergone a complete internal transformation to make it run completely on electricity.

It was first sent to the Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational School where students removed the cooling and heating system, the engine, clutch, pressure plate, exhaust system, fuel tank, and emission control system. The equipment was subsequently donated to the school.

The students also fabricated the partition between the driver and the batteries in the rear of the vehicle. The window in the partition was installed by Action Glass of Reading while the car was at the school.

Once this work was accomplished and the car was returned to the department, RMLD mechanic Ed Foley began reassembling.

"The conversion could not have happened without our mechanic Ed Foley," RMLD meter supervisor Joe Tine said. "He literally reconstructed the Tracker to become an all-electric vehicle. Without his expertise, knowledge and ability, we wouldn't be on the road in this vehicle today."

RMLD General Manager Len Rucker said that overall the car has been quite popular around town.

"It's been a lot of fun," Rucker said. "It's fairly popular and generally, it's been pretty positive."

The goal of the electric car program is two-fold. First, if electric cars are successful, and down the road people purchase them, it's a potential revenue source for all electric companies. Second, the federal Clean Air Act urges electric carriers to improve environmentally.

One problem, however, is what to do with spent batteries, which can become dangerous to the environment. "We've got some questions about the batteries," Rucker said. Other than that, and occasional freezing temperatures - which limit driving distances - it's been a success.

"Driving it is the oddest sensation," Rucker said. "You sit at a street light and you think you're stalled. It's really a lot of fun to drive. And it's good for from a public relations standpoint. Our drivers are mobbed. People have never been so interested with one of our cars."

A fabricated steel frame was created to support the batteries which were installed in the front and rear compartments as well as the motor controls. To compensate for the weight of the batteries, the rear of the car was reinforced with one inch steel tubing under the battery pack which was then welded to the frame. Heavy-duty springs, gas shocks and rubber-stabilizer bushings were added in the coils of the springs to strengthen the rear suspension to accommodate the eight 12 volt heavy-duty deep cycle batteries. These eight batteries were connected in a series to produce 96 volts.

According to Foley, the 96 volts are wired to a DC converter which steps the voltage down to 12 volts and is wired to the original battery. This supplies the power to all the original accessories. The 96 volts are also wired to the two batteries located in the front of the vehicle. These batteries are also connected in series to produce 120 volts DC to power the vehicle's 28 hp electric motor.

The car's engine is directly coupled to the transmission by a splined hub and adaptor plate cut to match the bell housing of the transmission. Foley subsequently fabricated the torque arms to prevent shifting of the motor and transmission during acceleration.

The Tracker is capable of obtaining speeds of up to 65 mph with a range of approximately 40 miles. The vehicle's speed is controlled by a Pot Box (Potentiometer) which is connected to the accelerator pedal. This Pot Box sends a signal to the motor controller to determine the amount of current sent to the motor.

During the rebuilding of the Tracker, the power steering was relocated and an adaptor was designed for the front output shaft of the motor. To create the power braking system, Foley installed an electric vacuum pump, a vacuum switch and a reserve tank. The vacuum pump shuts off when the vacuum reaches 21 inches of pressure. When it drops to 10 inches, the pump restarts.

RMLD summer employees John Condon, John Casey, Robert Crosby and Peter Caleshu were involved in the project, assisting Foley when needed. The four were instrumental in running the cables and wires required for the project.

The vehicle is now complete and is on the road. Automatic fans installed by Foley vent the battery gases during charging. One fan pulls the air in while the other pulls the air out. Both fans begin operating when the fuel door is opened to allow the driver to plug in the system charger. The batteries are recharged during off peak hours to minimize cost.

THIS ALL-ELECTRIC VEHICLE, a GEO Tracker, is used by the Reading Municipal Light Department. It's powered by eight batteries located in the rear of the car. RMLD Mechanic Ed Foley and students at the Northeast Voke school converted the car from gas-powered to all-electric. Its high speed is 65 m.p.h.

The meter department will be recording the data; i.e., meter readings, distance between charges, etc. during the next year. The RMLD received funding for the project as part of an APPA Demonstration of Energy Efficient Development (DEED) grant. Five other New England utilities are participating in this project.

An informational pamphlet is available from the driver of the vehicle and at the RMLD business office. The RMLD encourages customers to pick up a pamphlet at either location.

The RMLD's all-electric GEO Tracker has become somewhat of a celebrity in its own right. The car has been on display at the Lahey Clinic during "World

The beginning of another year. It's another season and another reason to pursue our goals. Julie Andrews said it so beautifully in song in the "Sound of Music." - "Climb every mountain; ford every stream; follow every rainbow; till you find your dream."

I invited my Aunt Nora to go to church with me on Christmas Day. "No thanks," she exclaimed. "I don't want people seeing me get out of that 'clunker' of yours. It's the oldest car in the church parking lot." "So what?" I said. "You're probably the oldest woman going to church."...Father John said, "I wish all of you a Merry Christmas and for some of you who won't be back until April, a Happy New Year, Happy St. Patrick Day and a Happy Easter!"

Judy D'Ambrosio said to me, "Chipper, cooking doesn't require much intelligence, otherwise men wouldn't be able to do it!"

Most motorists' cars have one license plate; dentist's cars have two - an upper plate and a lower plate... I told Don Jarvie that Kathy and I had an argument last week and she forced me to sleep in the spare bedroom. Don smiled and said, "Chipper, if she was my wife, I'd sleep in the spare room all the time."

I asked Stephen Rappa (a pharmacist), "What's this water on the drugstore floor?" Stephen said, "It's H2O." "Oh!" I replied, "I thought it might be K-9 P."... Jimmy Fanikos of Melrose thinks that Hertz Van Rental is a Dutch Painter.

Tony Stack of Dublin Ireland told me how he proposed to his wife, Mary. "Mary dear, would you like to be buried with my folks?"... I overheard Kathy telling my Aunt Nora, "We must plan to go to New York again for a few days. I'm running out of towels."

Folks, I've been accused of getting the names of my Personality Winners out of the telephone book. Well, I assure you that's not true. Each and every name is carefully chosen by me or recommended by trusted friends and that includes the names in my Dreamboat and Superstar section of Woodchips.

8 week parenting program offered at NEMH

Many parents experience times when they are uncertain or frustrated with managing their children's behavior. Toddlers and older children can present challenges which parents often feel they don't know how to handle. New England Memorial Hospital offers an eight week group for parents of children ages 2-12 years who would like support and guidance in becoming more effective parents.

Group members will learn useful and positive methods for improving their children's behavior and develop coping strategies to help feel more confident and successful as parents.

Participants will also gain support from each other through supportive discussion and role play.

The Parenting Group will meet Tuesdays from 6:30 to 7 p.m., beginning in January. The group leaders will be Abbie Seibert, Ph.D. and Chris Recklitis, Ph.D., members of the NEMH Department of Psychiatric Services. Sessions may be covered by a participant's health insurance plan. Those who would like more information or to register should contact either Dr. Seibert at (617) 979-7418 or Dr. Recklitis at (617) 979-7417.

Malden Mayor flattens Globe

Malden blasts into '94

Malden Mayor Edwin C. Lucey recently blasted a Boston newspaper for its "inaccurate portrayal" of Malden, according to an article in the "Malden Daily News."

Malden, according to the following statement issued by Lucey, is a city on the rise:

"I am outraged by a report that appeared in Sunday's Boston Globe in which Malden was falsely portrayed as a city on the decline," writes Lucey. "I find myself compelled to issue a response because the report contained several pieces of erroneous information from which the reporter apparently drew this false conclusion."

"This city administration has worked too hard over the past two years to recruit new businesses and to improve the Malden Public School System through a significant infusion of public funds to let this unwarranted, inaccurate report go without comment.

"The report describes Malden as a community on the decline with a shrinking population that has attracted many to families that are 'poor and broken.' These statements have absolutely no basis in fact," continues Lucey, who goes on to list Malden's features.

A comparison between the 1980 and 1990 U.S. Census data presents quite a different picture, says Lucey.

"Malden's population, according to the Census, has not declined," he continues, "but has risen by one percent in the past 10 years. Malden was one of the five cities inside Route 128 to experience a population increase."

"Malden's median household income has also increased drastically in the past 10 years from $15,938 to $34,344, an increase of 115 percent."

"Malden is not a poorer community than before, but is, in fact, a more wealthy community than it was 10 years ago. During the past decade, there has been a 30 percent decrease in Malden residents on public assistance."

"During the past decade, Malden has changed from a predominantly blue collar working class community with a 60 percent increase in management and professional employees taking up residence here."

"Malden's extensive use of Urban Renewal and Community Development funds has resulted in the rebuilding of 90 percent of Malden's commercial and industrial base in the past 20 years."

"Additionally," says Lucey, "the 'new' immigrants to this community, who were characterized in the article as the root of the city's decline, have added much to the community. Asians, who are the City's largest minority, now have the highest average income in Malden at $44,569 and the highest percentage of residents with college degrees (27 percent)."

"The article focused on the Violence Prevention Task Force Program, a coalition of school, police, city, court and social service agencies, who meet regularly at Malden High School."

"It is one of several proactive approaches the City has taken to intercept crime and violence before it occurs as opposed to reacting to problems after they occur. Other proactive initiatives undertaken by the City include the reactivation of the Junior Police Program for local youth and the institution of a community policing effort."

"The Violence Prevention Task Force Program," states Lucey, "initiated by Middlesex County District Attorney Thomas Reilly, has had a positive impact on Malden and has helped make Malden Public Schools one of the safest in the area. School and City officials from several surrounding communities have commended Malden for its aggressive, proactive approach to school violence and have sent representatives to Malden's meeting with the goal of modeling Malden's program in their communities."

"What should have been a positive story about a program that has had a dramatic impact on Malden, turned out to be a negative account laden with inaccuracies," says Lucey. "I have taken time to respond because I want all the citizens of Malden to know the facts. People in the community should also know that the statistics I quote are easily verified by contacting the Malden Planning Department."

"I also urge every resident and business person in Malden (I have heard from many) who are outraged by this unfair characterization of our community to express their anger directly by phone or in writing to the Boston Globe."

Boston Center welcomes Jefferson fellows

The Boston Center for International Visitors (BCIV) welcomes 15 Thomas Jefferson Fellows from Africa, Asia and Latin America to Boston through December 29, to take part in an educational seminar on "Small Business Development in a Global Economy."

Funded by the U.S. Agency for International Development, the objective of the 1993 Mid-Winter Community Seminar is to expose these future business owners to various components of small business development and international trade linkages, between Massachusetts and their countries.

The Jefferson Fellows will meet with representatives from MASSPORT Foreign Trade Unit, Accion International, Econo Corp., Harvard Design and mapping Company Inc., North Shore Small Business Development Center, and the Women in World Trade to examine issues of financing, management and marketing of small businesses.

At 7 p.m. on December 21, the Jefferson Fellows will participate in a volunteer project with Children for Uniting Nations (C-FUN) at their headquarters, on 41 Foster Street in Arlington. (Open to media.)

For the past 25 years, BCIV has conducted this seminar annually, one of 24 cities nationwide, devoted to providing Jefferson Fellows an opportunity to supplement their academic training and to better understand American traditions, people and values.

RMLD General Manager Len Rucker indicated that the Tracker will be available for use by local organizations who wish to use the vehicle as a promotional tool.

Maria Cole, Dennis Tully's teacher, said to him, "Dennis, tell your father he got four answers wrong in your math home work."... After having a couple of drinks at my favorite watering hole, I couldn't help it - I belched. Kevin Fisher ran over and shouted, "How dare you belch before my wife!" "Gee Kevin," I said, "I'm sorry. I didn't know it was your wife Shirley's turn to belch."

"Waiter!" I exclaimed, "Why do you have your thumb on the fish I ordered?" "I'm sorry, sir," he said, "I didn't want it to slide off the tray and fall on the floor again!"

Happy New Year to all. The following "Chips" are what I consider the best of the year. Aunt Nora, who is looking over my shoulder, wants you to know that there's no difference between my "best" and "worst" but here goes anyway:

-George Gould experienced a remarkable improvement in his hearing after taking a new medicine. The makers of this new elixir asked George for a testimonial. George obliged saying, "After taking your medicine for two weeks, I 'heard' from my brother in California."

-I remember when my late Uncle John Shea was in his 80s but could dance up a storm. He took a real live blonde bombshell to a dance at the Moose hall, set his pacemaker up a notch and started dancing. The next number was a lively Polish Polka, so Uncle John set the pacemaker up another notch. He then grabbed his partner and whirled away. Two minutes later he slumped to the floor. Joe Marshall ran over and asked, "Shall I call a doctor?" "No need to," the blonde beauty replied, "Just call the 'Triple A.' I'm sure they can 'jump start' him."

Folks, the accent may be on youth but the stress is on the parents... My Aunt Nora is as tough as nails, but nevertheless she had to go to the doctor's office when she got the flu. When it was finally her turn, she noticed a sign on the office door, "If you are here for a penicillin injection, please, to save time, come into the office backwards!"

Bob Bonney said, "In the glass business it's one pane after another."... My wife, Kathy, puts on so much body lotion, cold cream and oil she 'slides' out of bed every morning... Rep. Morris Udall said, "The only cure for political ambition is embalming fluid."

Business has been very rough even for lawyers. An attorney gave my cousin, Angelo Quaganti, his card and said, "If you need my services, call this number. It's my Uncle Dan's candy store. He'll give me the message."... A woman said to Frank Hogan, "Were you my husband, I'd poison your tea." "Oh, yeah?" Frank snapped. "Were you my wife, I'd drink the tea!"

"MEET THE MIDWIVES" SCHEDULED JANUARY 4

WomenCare, a medical practice staffed by five certified nurse-midwives and a physician to provide obstetrical care for women throughout their reproductive and childbearing years, will hold a meeting entitled "Meet the Midwives" on Tuesday, January 4th at 7 p.m. in the Malden Room of The Malden Hospital.

During the gathering, midwives Valerie Hadenius, Ellen Grossman, Janet Singer, Ellen Israel and Lanie Epstein, who practice at WomenCare in association with Mitchell Levine, M.D., an obstetrician and gynecologist, will discuss their OB/GYN Midwifery practice and answer questions. The meeting is open to anyone interested in learning about Midwifery, or persons may call (617) 397-6503 for more information.

WomenCare office hours at The Malden Hospital are Tuesdays from 2 to 5 p.m. Services offered include pre-pregnancy and nutritional coun-

COUNTRY WESTERN DANCE LESSONS

Country and Western dance lessons will be held at the Centre Congregational Church, Lynnfield including the Two-Step for beginner/intermediate on Wednesdays, January 12, 19, 26 and February 2 from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

WEIGHT LOSS PROGRAM OFFERED AT NEMH

A 10-week weight loss program is now offered at New England Memorial Hospital. It is based on a weight loss program developed by Dr. Kelly Brownell of Yale University and will be led by two staff psychologists in the behavioral medicine department of the hospital. The five components of the program, lifestyle, exercise, attitudes, relationships and nutrition will be taught in a small group format.

The expectation is that participants will lose one to two pounds per week during the group and will gain skills that will enable them to continue their weight loss after the group ends. This slow and gradual weight loss is not as flashy as fad diets but has been shown to ultimately be more effective and long lasting.

The group will begin in January or when fully enrolled and will meet on Wednesdays from 6:45 to 7:45 p.m. The group may be covered by a participants health insurance. For more information call Dr. Chris Recklitis or Dr. Carolyn Keefe at (617) 979-7025.

TAP CLASS OFFERED BY THEATRE WORKSHOP

The North Regional Theatre Workshop is offering a six-week Tap Class for members and non-members interested in learning basic tap steps, or just "brushing up" on old skills.

The Tap Class will run on Mondays, starting January 3 and continuing through February 7, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Union Congregational Church, Haverhill Street, North Reading.

Cost for the six-week course is $3 for NRTW members, $36 for non-members, payable at the first class. (Anyone wishing to become a member of NRTW for '94 may do so at that time.) Call (508) 681-0355 to reserve a space in class or for information.

He has appeared regularly on various news programs to discuss, analyze and comment on topical economic issues and breaking news events. He has frequently appeared on nationally-televised programs such as the MacNeil-Lehrer News Hour, The Today

VISTA ALUMNI ASKED TO "PHONE HOME"

During this holiday season, Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) is urging its former volunteers to "phone home" and find out about VISTA's new role in President Clinton's national service program as well as events marking VISTA's 30th anniversary next year.

More than 100,000 Americans have served as VISTA volunteers but many have lost contact with VISTA.

When the President signed the National and Community Service Trust Act last September, VISTA became a program of the new Corporation for National and Community Service, with a vital role in the President's national service program.

As the alumni know, the holiday spirit of giving extends year-round for VISTA volunteers. Former VISTA volunteers can call 1-800-424-8867 for information.

SIBLING CLASS HELPS CHILDREN ADJUST

Adjusting to a new addition in the family can be difficult for everyone, especially for an older child who may feel that a new "Everybody says, 'You look so healthy and you look so good.' Well, tanning beds do wonders for you. Inside, I'm not healthy. I don't feel well. I feel sick a lot. I'm scared to be in this school today because there's pneumonia going around and the flu, and I'm already sick - but it's worth it to me because I don't want to see anybody else end up like me. You probably see the ads and you say, 'Well he was shooting up and I don't do that.' Remember my friends. They never touched drugs in their lives. All they did was have sex once - and it's over," says one Heart-to-Heart speaker, at Reading High.

Is the medium the message?

As of November 1st - the most recent period for which figures are available - 7,989 cases of AIDS have been diagnosed in Massachusetts which ranks 10th in the nation in AIDS cases.

"This virus is alive and well and continuing to spread," says Public Health Commissioner David H. Mulligan, in the "Daily Times Chronicle." "While we don't tend to read about it as much, it's having a tremendous impact."

Nineteen of those cases of AIDS in Massachusetts are in Wakefield where Health Board Chairman Sam Stella believes there might be "50 to 60 people walking around ... who do not know they have it yet."

School Notes to S-6

school students, not in Wakefield.

Stoneham loses heart

Given the opportunity to preview the "Heart-to-Heart" program last fall, members of the greater Stoneham High community opted - in an amazingly animated and lengthy series of "letters to the editor" - to forego the Heart-to-Heart speakers because of their source, presumably preferring in that case to let statistics speak for themselves - or to let other people do the talking.

"Nobody can tell me that having sex just once isn't going to hurt. No, it's not going to hurt. It's going to kill," says one Heart-to-Heart speaker, not in Stoneham.

And Reading is all heart

Somehow, the Heart-to-Heart program slipped by Reading's school watchdogs a few years ago and as part of a series of programs on AIDS and HIV provided a group of speakers who, if memory recalls correctly, were the best set of speakers on the subject to hit Reading High.

They were at Reading High for a week, and they all promoted abstinence.

"Heart-to-Heart" or not?

Wakefield has change of heart

The Wakefield School Committee is searching for an alternative to the "Heart to Heart" program on AIDS - in spite of the fact that Wakefield Superintendent of Schools Dr. Stephen Maio says Wakefield High teachers are telling him "programs are out there, but are not as good or as comprehensive."

The Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle" reports that 'some parents,' according to Wakefield School Committee member Connie Tecce, do not want students to interact with 'this type' of group.

'Some' cynics are still asking, though, if when you shoot the messenger, you eliminate the 'problem.'

Heart-to-Heart focuses on the physiology of sexually transmitted diseases. Originally sponsored by the Massachusetts Department of Education, the AIDS Action Committee, and the Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts, its HIV-positive speakers speak for themselves, one to a classroom, almost one-on-one. Planned parenthood is the least of their concerns: Heart-to-Heart speakers promote abstinence.

"Recently I flew up to Maine to do an AIDS documentary and I met a girl, 18 years old - she's had AIDS for two years because she had sex once," says one Heart-to-Heart speaker to a classroom of high

Still time to help

The M.E. Santa is down quite a bit from last year. But, it is just part of a trend that is being experienced by the Salvation Army throughout this area.

Salvation Army officials say holiday season collections by bell-ringing kettle holders are down.

"I think there's so many people that have nothing left," said Steve Capoccia, a spokesman for the Salvation Army in Massachusetts. "You get like one out of 30 people, whereas normally it would be far more than that."

"It's harder to receive donations it seems this year. People haven't caught on that Christmas spirit," Capoccia said.

So far, kettle donations in the state total $1 million. Last year by this time, $2 million was collected.

all they receive is a God bless you and merry Christmas that the bell ringers remark to them."

The M.E. Santa (an extension of the kettle program) shows a similar shortfall.

Christmas donations of food, clothing and toys are down by 21 percent for 1993 as compared to 1992.

Donations have fallen nationwide, officials said. In 1992 the Salvation Army collected $171 million in Christmas donations, said Leon Ferraez of the agency's headquarters in Alexandria, Va. This year that number is expected to drop by 12 percent to around $150 million.

Capoccia said donations are appreciated.

"We're really grateful that people do contribute to the Salvation Army bell ringers and Middlesex East Publications, in association with the Salvation Army will sponsor "M.E. Santa" this holiday season to benefit needy individuals and families in the area.

In many past years, the Salvation Army has worked quietly within the communities. But this year it is asking for assistance due to increased pressure to provide services.

Funds will be distributed locally in the M.E. communities, which include Wilmington, Tewksbury, North Reading, Lynnfield, Reading, Stoneham, Burlington, Woburn, Wakefield, Winchester, Malden, Medford and Melrose.

A list of contributors will be published in Middlesex East throughout December.

Corporations and individuals are encouraged to include their names as part of their donations as efforts are made to promote the fund.

The "M.E. Santa" effort is actually part of the Salvation Army's ongoing service program. Please Help!

School Notes

From S-5

We hear that some Reading students, after listening to one young speaker's detailed account of a life of drug addiction and prostitution, "almost fell out of their chairs" when she announced she was from a neighboring town. When one HIV-positive speaker, also at Reading High, talked of her toddler having to be tested every six months for the virus, students listened, questioned and perhaps decided that abstinence was the best of all their possible choices.

"I've lost seven friends in the last nine or 10 months and they all died from AIDS. As a matter of fact, two days before Christmas, the guy who was here last year with me died. It's kind of weird for me to be here because the last time I was here, I was here with Joe. Every time the phone rings, I think, 'Oh God, who died now?' says Jennifer, at Reading High.

Straight from the heartland

The fastest growing groups of HIV-positive people, according to Massachusetts Public Health Commissioner David Mulligan, are women, children and minorities.

"AIDS," says Wakefield Board of Health Chairman Sam Stella, "exists in the suburbs."

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

Most people know Christopher Columbus arrived in the Western Hemisphere on October 12, but fewer remember when he left Spain: August 3, 1492.

Addams Family Values, much like the last Addams family outing, is a visual treat with keen artistic design that helps smooth over a weak storyline. There are two plot tangents, one involving a romance between Christopher Lloyd's Uncle Fester and new nanny Joan Cusack. The second, and funnier, has the Addams kids arriving in Camp Republican, where everyone is blonde, healthy and frighteningly chipper. Rated PG-13.
